HIGHEST PRICED STARS IN BURLESQUE NOW HERE

"Babe" La Tour and Leo Hoyt Head Cast at Gayety.

This week's show at the Gayety Thea-ter has two of the highest priced stars in buriesque with the organization, namely. "Babe" La Tour and Leo Hoyt. Miss La Tour started her stage career at the age of seven years and was as noisy the age of seven years and was as noisy upon her first appearance as she is now. Miss La Tour's rise to fave in burlesque was rapid. She and her sister had been doing a sister act in vaudeville hardly making enough to "get by" on. Her sister grew discouraged and got married, since then "Babe" has been rolling in wealth. This past summer she won a handsome care for herself when the Morn-handsome care for herself when the Mornhandsome care for herself when the Morn-ing Telegraph contest voted her the most popular woman in burlesque. Lee Hoyt, the German comedian, was thrown off the first stage on which he ever tried to perform. He has been through the mill, from stock to musical comedy. Has been stranded and had to work on a beat as a coal passer to earn his passers beat to have york in 1998 when sage back to New York. In 1898, when the Spanish-American war broke out, Leo was one of the first to enlist in the First Pennsylvania Infantry, Company "K." At that time even bullets with three meals a day looked good to him. However, per-severance backed by determination to succeed finally brought success and the trials and tribulations of these two stars' climb to fame are all amusing incidents

LAWS TO BE PUSHED TO AID FOREIGN TRADE

Extensive Legislative Program Due for Next Session.

An extensive legislative program for the aid and encouragement of American business in foreign trade will be sub-mitted to Congress by the administration at the beginning of the December ses-sion. The Federal Trade Commission and the Department of Commerce began work yesterday on an investigation of possible legislative enactments which would induce American merchants to broaden their markets, and compete for the world trade.

The foreign trade legislation will be

The foreign trade legislation will be built about the Webb bill, authorizing combinations of American merchants and manufacturers for export trade, and exempting such combinations from the operation of the anti-trust laws. This measure already has passed the House, but it falled in the Senate. To this measure will be added the legislation to be developed by the Trade Commission and the Department of Commerce.
